BEER CHIEF JUDGE'S REPORT - TONY JONES

On behalf of the 2017 Royal Adelaide Beer and Cider Awards Committee and all the judges, I warmly welcome you to this year's awards. The Royal Adelaide Beer Awards were established in 1844 as part of the wine judging. Beer judging continued annually until 1913 when it prematurely ceased. In 2011, The Royal Adelaide Beer Awards were re-commenced. The awards aim to recognise the importance, quality, uniqueness and promotion of the Australian beer industry. These awards can provide an opportunity for brewers to reach new markets both in South Australia and interstate and to benchmark themselves against other brewers.

I was honoured to be selected as Chief Judge for 2017. My role as Chief Judge is to ensure that the process of judging is run in a smooth manner and is of a high standard. This year we ran two concurrent panels and I was most ably assisted by the former Chief Judge Simon Fahey who was the second panel leader.

I have been fortunate to judge in numerous local & overseas beer competitions over my 35 years in the brewing industry and I was privileged to have led this group of 15 judges over a 2 day period of judging. This year the judges came from the Australian brewing industry and for the first time we were fortunate to have Stephen Whitehead from Speights, N.Z. as our international judge. Our thanks go to all the breweries who allowed their valuable employees the time off to spend judging on a voluntary basis.

The judges assessed and scored each exhibit on their commercial excellence, their quality attributes and their trueness to type. Each exhibit was assessed and scored individually and privately with feedback returned back to the brewer. Judges use a 20 point scoring system and the score determines the medal for each exhibit. This year saw a record breaking 189 beers entered, a healthy 10% up on 2016.

The judges agreed that the overall quality of entries has continued to improve and only a very small number of entries this year showed major faults. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the sponsors, judges, stewards and exhibitors that contribute to making these awards a success. I also thank our hardworking awards committee and all involved at RA&HS. A special thanks goes also our extra hard working Chief Steward Neville and his team who continue to make a complex task look easy.

I look forward to seeing you all at the Beer and BBQ Festival.

Cheers,

Tony Jones Chief Beer Judge 2017

Cider (and I include perry or pear cider) has definitely re-established itself as a popular drink in the hotels, bars and restaurants of Australia and continues to grow in both volume and diversity. This year's competition had 50% more entries, including 6 from New Zealand, and I am pleased to say that many medals were awarded. An interesting variety of ciders were entered, including a few unexpected flavours.

I should thank our panel of judges, comprising of a range of experienced cidermakers from South Australia and one from interstate, for their time, their palates and their expertise. We sniffed and tasted our way through the ciders and the overall impression was that cider is improving year on year. There were less significant issues and more smiles and medals. Over the course of this competition we have seen the quality of cider improve, with this year's competition awarding our first Gold Medal.

Cider judging protocol draws from both beer and wine judging, acknowledging that cider as a drink falls somewhere between the two. As with the beer judging each competitor receives detailed feedback from each judge on their ciders. Hopefully this is a useful tool to help in refining style and direction. Thank you all the exhibitors who entered, for putting forwards their ciders. Behind the scenes the stewards and staff of the RA&HS also deserve thanks for running a seamless show that I suspect might belie the behind the scenes action.

Cheers to great cider!

Melissa Fettke Chief Cider Judge 2017

This is our IPA glass.

This glass was developed in a sensory workshop in collaboration with two of the leading Indian Pale Ale brewers in the United States: Sam Calagione of Dogfish Head and Ken Grossman of Sierra Nevada. Through this process, we discovered one shape in particular showed the best balance of aroma and flavour.

Our IPA glass enhances the generous floral and citrus aromas that IPAs are famous for, whilst the uniquely shaped base maintains and recharges a fresh frothy head with every sip, delivering full hop flavour and perfect malt balance.

It is the new standard for IPA glassware.

Because crafting beer is an art, but making it safe is a science.
